

Project Title:

Undefined - The unification of humanity through an inquisitive exposition of traditional and conventional paradigms.

Project Description:

The intent of the book is to dismantle or soften the belief structures of the reader to the point where new information and perception are not met with unconscious cognitive dissonance and a conscious shift can be achieved. This will be done by connecting the elusive dots of anthropology, neurology, and etymology to the unconscious behaviors of contemporary humanity. The shift itself is a transcendence of the human condition, otherwise known as the ego (identification with form, primarily thought form). That shift will allow for the disillusionment of religious misconceptions, political adherences, cultural ideologies, and social norms. Which, in turn, could shed new light on the volatile polarities of nationalities, sexualities, racism, and the rest of the mental perversions of humanity. Ultimately unifying the human race in a cooperative, rather than competitive mindset and global disposition.
